The Center for American Studies and Research offers an undergraduate minor in American Studies which focuses on the cultural, political, and intellectual life of the United States of America. Students investigate the United States’ past and present from a multiple disciplinary perspective, learn to synthesize various areas of knowledge, and develop learning and research strategies needed for responsible analysis of persistent historical questions and urgent contemporary national and international developments.

Mission

The center is to improve understanding between America and the Arab World. It will seek to be a central place for discussion of issues involving the US, Egypt, the Middle East, and the world. It will run an active public outreach program including student trips, media programs, public conferences, and symposiums with Egyptian universities.
The Center for American Studies and Research offers an undergraduate minor in American Studies which focuses on the cultural, political, and intellectual life of the United States of America. Students investigate the United States' past and present from a multiple disciplinary perspective, learn to synthesize various areas of knowledge, and develop learning and research strategies needed for responsible analysis of persistent historical questions and urgent contemporary national and international developments.

Mission

The center is to improve understanding between America and the Arab World. It will seek to be a central place for discussion of issues involving the US, Egypt, the Middle East, and the world. It will run an active public outreach program including student trips, media programs, public conferences, and symposiums with Egyptian universities.
PRINCE ALWALEED BIN TALAL BIN ABDULAZIZ ALSAUD CENTER FOR AMERICAN STUDIES

The Center for American Studies and Research offers an undergraduate minor in American Studies which focuses on the cultural, political, and intellectual life of the United States of America. Students investigate the United States’ past and present from a multiple disciplinary perspective, learn to synthesize various areas of knowledge, and develop learning and research strategies needed for responsible analysis of persistent historical questions and urgent contemporary national and international developments.

Mission

The center is to improve understanding between America and the Arab World. It will seek to be a central place for discussion of issues involving the US, Egypt, the Middle East, and the world. It will run an active public outreach program including student trips, media programs, public conferences, and symposiums with Egyptian universities.
The Center for American Studies and Research offers an undergraduate minor in American Studies which focuses on the cultural, political, and intellectual life of the United States of America. Students investigate the United States' past and present from a multiple disciplinary perspective, learn to synthesize various areas of knowledge, and develop learning and research strategies needed for responsible analysis of persistent historical questions and urgent contemporary national and international developments.

Mission

The center is to improve understanding between America and the Arab World. It will seek to be a central place for discussion of issues involving the US, Egypt, the Middle East, and the world. It will run an active public outreach program including student trips, media programs, public conferences, and symposiums with Egyptian universities.
The Center for American Studies and Research offers an undergraduate minor in American Studies which focuses on the cultural, political, and intellectual life of the United States of America. Students investigate the United States’ past and present from a multiple disciplinary perspective, learn to synthesize various areas of knowledge, and develop learning and research strategies needed for responsible analysis of persistent historical questions and urgent contemporary national and international developments.

Mission

The center is to improve understanding between America and the Arab World. It will seek to be a central place for discussion of issues involving the US, Egypt, the Middle East, and the world. It will run an active public outreach program including student trips, media programs, public conferences, and symposiums with Egyptian universities.
The Center for American Studies and Research offers an undergraduate minor in American Studies which focuses on the cultural, political, and intellectual life of the United States of America. Students investigate the United States' past and present from a multiple disciplinary perspective, learn to synthesize various areas of knowledge, and develop learning and research strategies needed for responsible analysis of persistent historical questions and urgent contemporary national and international developments.

Mission

The center is to improve understanding between America and the Arab World. It will seek to be a central place for discussion of issues involving the US, Egypt, the Middle East, and the world. It will run an active public outreach program including student trips, media programs, public conferences, and symposiums with Egyptian universities.
The Center for American Studies and Research offers an undergraduate minor in American Studies which focuses on the cultural, political, and intellectual life of the United States of America. Students investigate the United States' past and present from a multiple disciplinary perspective, learn to synthesize various areas of knowledge, and develop learning and research strategies needed for responsible analysis of persistent historical questions and urgent contemporary national and international developments.

Mission

The center is to improve understanding between America and the Arab World. It will seek to be a central place for discussion of issues involving the US, Egypt, the Middle East, and the world. It will run an active public outreach program including student trips, media programs, public conferences, and symposiums with Egyptian universities.
The Center for American Studies and Research offers an undergraduate minor in American Studies which focuses on the cultural, political, and intellectual life of the United States of America. Students investigate the United States’ past and present from a multiple disciplinary perspective, learn to synthesize various areas of knowledge, and develop learning and research strategies needed for responsible analysis of persistent historical questions and urgent contemporary national and international developments.

Mission

The center is to improve understanding between America and the Arab World. It will seek to be a central place for discussion of issues involving the US, Egypt, the Middle East, and the world. It will run an active public outreach program including student trips, media programs, public conferences, and symposiums with Egyptian universities.
PRINCE ALWALEED BIN TALAL BIN ABDULAZIZ ALSAUD CENTER FOR AMERICAN STUDIES

The Center for American Studies and Research offers an undergraduate minor in American Studies which focuses on the cultural, political, and intellectual life of the United States of America. Students investigate the United States’ past and present from a multiple disciplinary perspective, learn to synthesize various areas of knowledge, and develop learning and research strategies needed for responsible analysis of persistent historical questions and urgent contemporary national and international developments.

Mission

The center is to improve understanding between America and the Arab World. It will seek to be a central place for discussion of issues involving the US, Egypt, the Middle East, and the world. It will run an active public outreach program including student trips, media programs, public conferences, and symposiums with Egyptian universities.

NEWS

The Center for American Studies and Research offers an undergraduate minor in American Studies which focuses on the cultural, political, and intellectual life of the United States of America. Students investigate the United States’ past and present from a multiple disciplinary perspective, learn to synthesize various areas of knowledge, and develop learning strategies needed for responsible analysis of persistent historical questions and urgent contemporary national and international developments.

EVENTS

The center is to improve understanding between America and the Arab World. It will seek to be a central place for discussion of issues involving the US, Egypt, the Middle East, and the world. It will run an active public outreach program including student trips, media programs, public conferences, and symposiums with Egyptian universities.
The Center for American Studies and Research offers an undergraduate minor in American Studies which focuses on the cultural, political, and intellectual life of the United States of America. Students investigate the United States’ past and present from a multiple disciplinary perspective, learn to synthesize various areas of knowledge, and develop learning and research strategies needed for responsible analysis of persistent historical questions and urgent contemporary national and international developments.

Mission

The center is to improve understanding between America and the Arab World. It will seek to be a central place for discussion of issues involving the US, Egypt, the Middle East, and the world. It will run an active public outreach program including student trips, media programs, public conferences, and symposiums with Egyptian universities.